He has passed from this sinful world into realms of eternal glory, before sin, that fell destroyer of man's soul, had time to exert its corrupting influence upon his youthful mind. He is missed at the once happy fireside. — P. W. H.

In this City, on Saturday, January 24th, HARRIET, wife of LEWIS HIGGINS, in the 44th year of her age.

The deceased had been for about a quarter of a century a resident of our town, exhibiting all the virtues that adorn the wife and mother. During the prevalence of the fatal epidemic in our town for the last few weeks, she was extensively useful in ministering to the sick. In the midst of her labors for the comfort and welfare of others, she was herself attacked with the fever, and soon fell a victim to its power, leaving a deeply afflicted husband and children to mourn her loss. — P. W. H.

In this city, on the 3d and 4th inst., of Spotted Fever, BRIDGET, and ANASTASIA, daughters of Widow THOMAS KING.

We are seldom called upon to chronicle a more affecting calamity than that of the death of these young women, whose behavior were models of virtue. Bridget was in her 21st year, and Anastasia in her 15th. They were girls of good moral habits, industrious and saving; always making it their care and study to comfort their widowed mother. But, alas! their cares and troubles upon this earth are ended. They will no longer make the fireside of their mother echo with their merry voices. They have passed into a brighter world, where sorrow is a stranger, and peace and happiness dwells eternally. May they rest in peace. — P. W. H.

In this city, Feb. 5th, of Spotted Fever, EUPHEMIA C. TRAPHAGAN, aged 6 years and 11 months, and on Monday, Feb. 8th, FRANCES G. TRAPHAGAN, aged 10 years and 3 months, daughters of IRA D. and SARAH H. TRAPHAGAN.

The stroke of death has fallen amid another home circle. The destroyer has taken these loved ones from a world of sin and sorrow to bright abode of unending happiness. They are not lost; they have only gone before; they shall be exposed to no more peril. They are forever free from pain and sin and sorrow—for we believe that they are safe in the fold of that good Shepherd who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me." Earth has less claim upon the bereaved parents, but heaven has more. These little ones "were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided"! — [C. M.]

In this city, Feb. 6th, of Spotted Fever, NELLIE E., only daughter of JOSEPH W. and ELIZABETH PECK, aged 14 years, 1 month and 19 days.
